From lack of engagement to education

From school re-enrolment to job interview

From lack of knowledge to understanding

Look at her Now

When we first met “mum” she was homeless, living in the back of an old shop, struggling with the law. Her track record in traffic offences was substantial. We met her when supporting her son to stay in school.

Today, “mum” is playing a vital role as a lead volunteer, being responsible and demonstrating by example, how she can give back to the organisation which helped her family.

From lack of engagement to gaining compassion and leadership award

BETTER TO BUILD A CHILD – than repair an adult

Although societies recognize that the future lies in our children, far too many children have their rights denied every single day. The reality is we do not choose our parents. We do not choose to come into a home where work ethic is not modelled, education not valued, positive values such as honesty, respect and encouragement are not practiced.

What we take for granted as a good start in a good family, is not the experience of every child. Many South Australian children are on the back foot lacking good nurturing and guidance.

Frederick Douglass, a slavery abolitionist in 1855 said, “It is easier to build strong children than to repair broken men.” The statement is simple and profound and applies from generation to generation. And yet we as a society and as individual families, neglect the building, facilitate the breaking and balk at the cost and commitment of the repair.

The goal of building a child is to equip and empower them while they’re young so when they become adults they’re in better emotional, mental, spiritual, financial, and or physical positions than before.

If you want to change the world through education, there is only so much energy and resources. Frederick Douglass is clearly saying that you should focus on the children.

Here at Second Chances we place a great value on the children of prisoners. Our aim is to give them encouragement to complete their education, plus positive life skills. Many struggle with basic numeracy, literacy and they suffer from being malnourished. The other day we delivered a fruit basket to a child with hand, foot and mouth disease. The standard of hygiene in many homes is well below any standard we would tolerate.

Please, let’s keep the children – citizens of tomorrow – uppermost in our minds, actions and investment of time and resources.

Chief Executive

Looking for a Speaker?

If you’re connected to a community group, why not invite us to be your guest speaker?

These are endorsements from service organisations who’ve invited Helen to speak.

‘Helen engaged us from the very beginning by asking rhetorical questions to make us compare our fortunate upbringings with those of children of prisoners. This developed our knowledge of, and empathy for, their situation. This was done in a very skilful and respectful way, so as to take us on a journey of understanding.’

Lions Club Golden Grove

‘Many thanks for your efforts in speaking at our meeting on April 20. I hope that you realise that those residents present really appreciated hearing your message of hope for children who themselves are innocent of personal crimes.

I had heard your message earlier in the year at the Lions Club of Golden Grove High Tea event, and immediately realised that your message of creating hope in the lives of children who are facing adversity was extremely valuable and worth sharing with my Neighbourhood Watch group.

Keep up the excellent work – everyone needs to be aware of the need to mentor in a caring and compassionate way the youngsters in our community, encouraging them to persevere and go on in order to break the cycle of criminality in their lives. As you indicated we can’t make people change, but certainly encouragement through mentoring can make a real difference in their lives.
